[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO OCT. 30.

EASTERN STATES.

The Tammany Thieves.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Tweed states to a reporter that he does not believe Ingersoll has fled, but that he will return soon; and he declares that his chances of election will not be impaired by the proceedings against him. He declined to answer interrogations as to his line of defense. Ingersoll is reported to be in Portland, Maine. Both he and Garvey, who are absent, are said to be weak men, and if put to a rigid examination, they will tell about the frauds. In his paper of this week, Mayor Hall takes strong ground in favor of the election of Tweed to the Senate.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Over 100 civil suits have already been commenced against the Staten Island Ferry Company by persons injured by the Westfield explosion. Nearly one hundred and fifty more are preparing, damages claimed, ranging from $1,000 to $5,000.

Judge Ledwith, a member of the Committee of Seventy accepts the nomination of both Tammany and the Democracy to the Supreme Court.

In view of the sailing of the Russian fleet from Madeira on the 9th of October, the arrival of the Grand Duke is not looked for in this city until about the 9th of November.

The amount of subscriptions for the Catholic churches of Chicago is over $23,000.

Several clergymen of Chicago are receiving private contributions in this city.

The Greeley Republicans last night adopted the city nominations of the Reform Democrats. The Murphy party adopted the same ticket. By this action there is a union of the opposition to Tammany on candidates for Registrar, Judges of the Supreme, Superior and Marine Courts. The nominations will result in a compromise giving the Republicans a portion of the offices, one candidate for the Legislature and city officers. Other than above the anti-Tammany parties as a general thing have separate nominations.

All the members of the Cabinet will be here on Thursday.

The Secretary of the Treasury has authorized the Assistant Treasurer in New York to purchase one million dollars in bonds on each Wednesday in November, five millions in all, and to sell one million dollars in coin on the first, third and fifth Thursdays, and two millions on the second and fourth Thursdays, or seven million dollars in all.

Arrest of the Mayor of Lexington, Ky., and other City Officers.

LEXINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Mayor and many officials of the city have been arrested on an indictment from the Federal Court, charging them with felony, growing out of disturbances at the August election. General excitement exists at what is considered a gross outrage, instigated by leading Radicals of this place.

Yellow Fever at Vicksburg and Natchez.

VICKSBURG, October 29.—Three new cases of yellow fever occurred to-day. There have been no deaths for the past 48 hours. Thirty cases are under treatment.

NATCHEZ, October 29.—The fever is abating; 150 cases are under treatment. About 60 deaths have occurred since September 18.

NEW YORK, October 29.—The Committee of Seventy formally endorsed the Reform ticket.

Nathaniel Sands asks that the charge against him of having made money as a negotiator of bonds, be examined by a select committee.

MEXICO.

Success of the Revolutionists.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Telegrams from Mexico report the surrender of the Juarez forces of Saltillo to the revolutionary commander. General Trevino found a considerable amount of war material in the place. Escobedo is prepared to defend Nuevo Leon against the Revolutionists. General Pavon has pronounced against Juarez.

Alabama Claims.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18, 1871.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I herewith enclose a copy of a circular letter issued by the State Department in answer to letters addressed to them upon the subject of claims generally known as the Alabama claims, desiring to know how to proceed in making proof and papers in proper form. I enclose an official circular of 1865. The rules therein laid down would apply very appropriately in making up papers for the Alabama claims, with such other matter as the parties in interest may submit. I think a duplicate bill of lading and original invoice or a certified copy of the same, should be furnished by the person or persons sustaining the loss. These are of prime importance. Claimants should be prompt in forwarding their papers so as to reach the State Department before the 16th December.

Very respectfully,
H. W. CORBETT.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, Sept. , 1871.

Sir: I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the inst. and its inclosures.

In reply, I inclose a copy of the treaty concluded with Great Britain on the 8th of May last and general instructions as to the proof of claims prepared for the use of claimants in the absence of rules by the tribunal which may pass upon the claims.

In the absence of rules and in anticipation of the action of the tribunal, this Department cannot assume to determine what claims it may or may not be proper to prefer under the first eleven articles of the treaty, nor to direct what form or extent of proof will be necessary to establish them, nor the effect of insurance upon the question of right to compensation. It will present to the tribunal at Geneva, to be taken into account in estimating the sum to be paid to the United States, all "claims growing out of the acts committed by the several vessels which have given rise to the claims generally known as the Alabama Claims," which may be presented to the Department in time to enable it to do so. Persons desiring to lodge claims in the Department for that purpose are requested to do so without delay, in such form and sustained by such proofs as they may be advised to think proper to rest their claims upon, as the time for presenting the case of the United States expires on the 15th day of December next. I am, sir, very respectfully

Your obedient servant,
(Signed) HAMILTON FISH, Sec'y.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 28, 1865.

The following official notice to claimants against foreign governments was published on the 25th ultimo by this Department:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22, 1865.

Citizens of the United States having claims against foreign governments, not founded on contract, which may have originated since the 8th of February, 1853, will, without any delay which can be avoided, forward to this department statements of the same, under oath, accompanied by the proper proof.

The following rules, which are substantially those which have been adopted by commissions organized under conventions between the United States and foreign governments for the adjustment of claims, are published for the information of citizens of the United States having claims against foreign governments, of the character indicated in the above notification; and they are advised to conform as nearly as possible to these rules in preparing and forwarding their papers to the Department of State.

Each claimant should file a memorial, setting forth, minutely and particularly the facts and circumstances from which the right to prefer such claim is derived by the claimant; and it should be verified by his or her oath or affirmation.

The memorial and all the accompanying papers should be written on foolscap paper, with a margin of at least one inch in width on each side of the page, as in this circular, so as to admit of their being bound in volumes for preservation and convenient reference; and the pages should succeed each other like those of a book, and be readable without inverting them.

When any of the papers mentioned in Rule 11 are known to have been already furnished to the Department by other claimants, it will be unnecessary to repeat them in a subsequent memorial. Nor is it necessary, where several vessels have been captured by the same cruiser, to repeat in each memorial the circumstances in respect to the equipment, arming, manning, flag, etc., of such cruiser, which are relied upon as the evidence of the responsibility of a foreign government for her tortious acts. A simple reference to and adoption of one memorial in which such facts have been fully stated will suffice.

It is proper that the interposition of this government with the foreign government against which the claim is presented should be requested in express terms, to avoid a possible objection to the jurisdiction of a future commission on the ground of the generality of the claim. Claims of citizens of the United States against this government, growing out of the late insurrection, are under the cognizance of other Departments, of the Court of Claims, or are the subjects for an appeal to Congress.

RULES.

In every such memorial should be set forth—

1. The amount of the claim; the time when and place where it arose; the kind or kinds and amount of property lost or injured; the facts and circumstances attending the loss or injury out of which the claim arises; the principles and causes which lie at the foundation of the claim.

2. For and in behalf of whom the claim is preferred, giving christian and surname of each in full.

3. Whether the claimant is now a citizen of the United States, and if so, whether he is a native or naturalized citizen, and where is now his domicil; and if he claims in his own right, then whether he was a citizen when the claim had its origin, and where was then his domicil; and if he claims in the right of another, then whether such other was a citizen when the claim had its origin, and where was then and where is now, his domicil; and if, in either case, the domicil of the claimant at the time the claim had its origin was in any foreign country, then whether such claimant was then a subject of the government of such country, or had taken any oath of allegiance thereto.

4. Whether the entire amount of the claim does now, and did at the time when it had its origin, belong solely and absolutely to the claimant; and if any other person is or has been interested therein, or in any part thereof, then who is such other person, and what is or was the nature and extent of his interest; and how, when, and by what means and for what considerations the transfer of rights or interests, if any such was made, took place between the parties.

5. Whether the claimant, or any other who may at any time have been entitled to the amount claimed, or any part thereof, has ever received any, and if any, what sum of money or other equivalent or indemnification, for the whole or any part of the loss or injury upon which the claim is founded; and if so, when and from whom the same was received.

6. All testimony should be in writing, and upon oath or affirmation, duly administered, according to the laws of the place where the same is taken, by a magistrate competent by such laws to take depositions, having no interest in the claim to which the testimony relates, and not being the agent or attorney of any person having such interest, and it must be certified by him that such is the case. The credibility of the affiant or deponent, if known to such magistrate, or other person authorized to take such testimony, should be certified by him; and if not known, should be certified on the same paper upon oath by some other person known to such magistrate having no interest in such claim, and not being the agent or attorney of any person having such interest, whose credibility must be certified by such magistrate. The deposition should be reduced to writing by the person taking the same, or by some person in his presence having no interest, and not being the agent or attorney of any person having an interest, in the claim, and should be carefully read to the deponent by the magistrate before signed by him, and this should be certified.

7. Depositions taken in any city, port, or place without the limits of the United States, may be taken before any consul or other public civil officer of the United States resident in such city, port or place, having no interest, and not being agent or attorney of any person having an interest, in the claim, to which the testimony so taken relates. In all other cases, whether in the United States or any foreign place, the right of the person taking the same to administer oaths by the laws of the place must be proved.

8. The affiant or deponent should state in his deposition his age, place of birth, residence and occupation, and where was his residence and what was his occupation at the time the events took place in regard to which he deposes; and must also state if he have any, and if any, what interest, in the claim to support which his testimony is taken; and if he have any contingent interest in the same, to what extent, and upon the happening of what event, he will be entitled to receive any part of the sum which may be awarded. He should also state whether he be the agent or attorney of the claimant, or of any person having an interest in the claim.

9. Original papers exhibited in proof should be verified as originals by the oath of a witness whose credibility must be certified as required in the sixth of these rules; but when the fact is within the exclusive knowledge of the claimant, it may be verified by his own oath or affirmation. Papers in the handwriting of any person who is deceased, or whose residence is unknown to the claimant, may be verified by proof of such handwriting, and of the death of the party, or his removal to places unknown.

10. All testimony taken in any foreign language, and all papers and documents in any foreign language, which may be exhibited in proof, must be accompanied by a translation of the same into the English language.

11. When the claim arises from the seizure or loss of any ship or vessel, or the cargo of any ship or vessel, a certified copy of the enrollment or registry of such ship or vessel should be produced, together with the original clearance, manifests, and all other papers and documents required by the laws of the United States, which she possessed on her last voyage from the United States, when the same are in the possession of the claimant, or can be obtained by him; and when not, certified copies of the same should be produced, together with his oath or affirmation that the originals are not in his possession and cannot be obtained by him.

12. In all cases where property of any description for the seizure or loss of which a claim has been presented, was insured at the time of such seizure or loss, the original policy of insurance, or a certified copy thereof, should be produced.

13. If the claimant be a naturalized citizen of the United States, a copy of the record of his naturalization, duly certified, should be produced.

14. Documentary proof should be authenticated by proper certificates or by the oath of a witness.

15. If the claimant shall have employed counsel, the name of such counsel should, with his address, be signed to the memorial and entered upon the record, so that all necessary notices may be served upon such counsel or agent respecting the case.

NASAL CATARRH.

This is a chronic affection of the mucous membrane of the nostrils or the throat, originating in irritation or inflammation, and attended by more or less discharge. It is one of the most common, most disgusting, and finally most destructive of the diseases incident to the variable climate of our northern latitude.

In its early stages catarrh often fails to attract the patient's attention, so insidious is its approach. This is an unfortunate circumstance, [illegible] the most favorable period for treatment is thus unimproved, and [illegible] the peculiar disposition of the disease to extend [illegible] to the frontal sinuses, backward through the [illegible] tubes to the middle ears, and down through the larynx, trachea, and bronchia, to the air cells of the lungs.

The discharge from the affected parts is at first a clear [illegible] which may escape observation, unless it change [illegible] of a more than usually acrid character. As time goes [illegible] gives place to a fluid that is thicker, and of a yellowish green color, and still later this may be [illegible] thick flakes or [illegible]

In all the more advanced stages the discharges are generally of an offensive odor [illegible] to the patient's friend and to the patient [illegible], while his [illegible] remains. This annoyance from the odor becomes almost beyond endurance, when, as sometimes happens, the delicate bones of the nose [illegible]

Some cases early assume the character of Dry Catarrh. There is then a [illegible] of secretion, heat and [illegible] to the nostrils, which are often (one or both of them) closed by thickening of the mucous membrane, and thus a difficulty of breathing [illegible]

On examining the nostrils in Chronic Catarrh, with instruments specially adapted to that purpose, we find [illegible] lining membrane [illegible] and of a [illegible] color than in health. There are seen little points of ulceration, upon which the secretion becomes hardened and forms a [illegible] When these are [illegible] the diseased surface is irritated and frequently bleeds profusely.

In each case of Catarrh the prominent symptoms are determined by the direction in which the disease extends. If this be upward there may be pain over and between the eyes, obstruction of the lachrymal duct [illegible] the tears to flow over the cheeks, and possibly ophthalmia—inflammation of the eyes. If backward, there will be thickening of the walls of the Eustachian tubes, and consequent tendency to their obstruction [illegible] the middle ear, buzzing sounds in the head, and [illegible] ment of hearing. When the extension is downward, the voice becomes hoarse or whispering and [illegible] cough comes on, with expectoration and emaciation, to be followed too often by Consumption and Death.

In cases where the bones of the nose [illegible] of the breath increased, but there is a liability to serious personal deformities [illegible] which are flattening of the nose.

The swallowing of catarrhal secretions deranges the functions of the stomach, causing indigestion and loss of appetite. Debility, paleness, lassitude, [illegible] and disturbance of mind soon follow. In some [illegible] the mental affliction is one of irritability, the [illegible] unduly annoyed by all the little perplexities of life. In others the prominent feeling is that of the [illegible] or depression of spirits, when the invalid can see [illegible] to himself or his affairs.

Allusion has been made to the [illegible] of [illegible] continuity of surface along the natural air passages [illegible] to the substance of the lungs, thus causing Consumption. [illegible] In this connection [illegible] also be [illegible] that the air which enters the lungs of a catarrhal patient is, every breath of it poisoned by exhalations from the foul secretions of the diseased surface. By such air the blood cannot be properly purified and made fit to impart healthy vigor in its unceasing circuit to all and every part of the animal mechanism. [illegible] pose that this consideration alone would be [illegible] to induce every person thus afflicted to make early application for relief.

The treatment of Catarrh is in part constitutional, whereby the energies of the whole system are [illegible] to aid in expelling its destructive [illegible] It is in part local, whereby the discharge is made [illegible] diminished and finally arrested, and whereby the inflamed surface is healed and restored to its normal condition.

By means of new and ingenious apparatus DR. ABORN is able in Catarrh and all other affections of the respiratory organs, to apply his remedies directly to the affected localities. Treatment is thus made more efficient as well as less disagreeable. In many cases the first application of the topical treatment will change the character of the discharge and materially purify the breath.

The Lesson of the Elections.

We have been favored, recently, with elections, small and great—in towns, cities and States,—in the East and West, North and South, and the result is everywhere the same. The Democracy is as badly deserted as it was during the Rebellion, and the Republican party is as fully adopted, its principles advocated, and its candidates endorsed, as at any period in its history. Nor can it be said that the vote is light, and the result unsuggestive. The vote has been exceptionally heavy, and the canvass remarkably spirited and lively. Yet, despite the "new departure," and the various other efforts of the Democracy, they have been let severely alone by the people. Why?

1. It is felt that the late movements of the Democracy involve, in effect, the abandonment of principle. No one seriously believes that their "new departure" was anything else than a bid for power. It did not represent a change of convictions, or a desire to become the party of progress—but was merely a set of phrases intended to secure votes, but not to represent a new phase of party policy. And at most, it amounts to nothing. As explained, it is simply an acknowledgement that the several amendments to the national constitution have been adopted in a proper manner. Yet it is intended to impress the public that the Democracy accepted the changes as right in principle—a recognition of freedom and the conferment of franchise on the colored people. This it was not their purpose to do—hence their utterances were deceptive, and the attempt to secure power by means of deception is unprincipled, and so unpopular.

2. The people regard the Republican party as particularly essential to the prosperity of the country at this time. The American people are exactly honest. Whatever they engage to do, that they desire to perform. Hence when the attempt was made by the Democratic party, at a time when gold was at a heavy premium, to enact a law providing for the payment of the national debt in greenbacks, the people repudiated the suggestion. They felt that reputation for honesty was of more value to this country than a few million of dollars to be saved by questionable or dishonest means. They knew the debt was contracted on a promise, direct or implied, to pay it in gold, and they have ever been firmly determined to thus fulfill the agreement. But now the policy of the two parties, so far as the management of finances is concerned, is in strong contrast. President Grant has steadily reduced the national debt. The Democracy in New York have steadily increased their city debt. The people see and know the meaning of these facts. Moreover, the many questions determined by the war are to be kept settled. It is known that the Republican party will do this—while suspicions are entertained as to the purposes of the Democracy. The people prefer to retain a party that is tried and known to be in accord with their sympathies, rather than trust one that is untried since it plunged the country into rebellion.

3. The moral virtue of this year's elections is appreciated. Next year the Presidential struggle will be on hand. It is desirable that it shall be simplified by furnishing an intimation this year as to the party from whom the people will select their candidate. If the elections this year were in favor of the Democracy, there would be a mighty struggle next year for the mastery. The Democrats, encouraged, strengthened and inspirited, would put forth a gigantic effort to secure to themselves supreme power in the land. But with the elections this year against them, it will be impossible for them to combine very much strength, or to develop a very exciting canvass. The people are aware of this, and thus quietly hint to them, that they will do wisely to spare money and effort. The fact that so much of what has been thought to be their strength has gone from them, should admonish them that they have but a slight hold on the people.

4. The people wish it to be understood that they are the sovereigns in this country, and here let the Republican party take notice. They are fast recovering back some of the lost in not complying with the views of the people, in the past. In some places the trouble has been in regard to candidates. In others, policy, and to some extent this has been a difficulty, as regards some minor features of policy, in the country at large. The Democracy, though in the minority, have been so remarkably stupid that the people will not use them, farther than to remind the Republican party of its duty. But this should remind them that the people's wishes, both as to candidates and policy, should be fully met.

A Prodigy of Growth.

Less than forty years ago Major Long, who conducted an expedition to explore the source of the tributaries of the Upper Mississippi, wrote of Chicago in his official report: "The village presents no cheering prospect. It consists of but few huts, inhabited by a miserable set of men scarcely equal to the Indians from whom they are descended. As a place of trade it offers no inducements to the settler." He thought when Illinois and Indiana became densely populated "Chicago might become one of the points in the direct line of communication between the northern lakes and the Mississippi. But even the intercourse which will be carried on through this communication will at all times be a limited one." At that time (1833) "the whole annual amount of the trade of the lake did not exceed the cargo of five or six schooners, even at the time the garrison received its supplies from Mackinaw." This sage prediction sounds very curious at this time, when we contemplate the destruction of but a part of the great city which thirty-eight years ago presented "no cheering prospect;" but Major Long based his opinions concerning the future of the "village" upon a very correct estimate of its apparent natural advantages, of which it had none of the kind which usually determine beforehand the location of cities. Its river was not a river, but a ditch of stagnant water, drained from the surrounding prairie, and had no permanent connection with the lake. To all appearances the little village of "but few huts, inhabited by a miserable set of men scarcely equal to the Indians," had no future, but the building of railroads and the development of the West were not then taken into account as affecting the prosperity of the settlement, and if Major Long lived to see the reverse of his predictions realized he had, doubtless, more reason for surprise than chagrin in having failed to discover in the huts the nucleus of the city which sprung into existence as if by the power of magic. The growth of our American cities, and more especially those of the West, observes an English journal, occupying sites which, within the memory of the present generation, were covered with primeval forest growths, is a matter of wonder even to Americans, while to others it is the cause of unbounded astonishment. This is particularly the case with Chicago, and many who read of its destruction can remember before it had any existence even as a village; and it was long after a permanent settlement was effected that it first began to show signs of growing into a town of even third rate importance.

The death of Gen. Robert Anderson, the hero of Fort Sumter, will be commented on by every press in the Union, and a whole nation will take this occasion to renew expressions of gratitude to the memory of the man who, in the midst of perils without precedent, at a time when the heads of the Government were weak, cowardly, vacillating, and even under the influence and control of the leaders of the rebellion, dared to do his duty and to uphold the honor and majesty of the American people. All honor to his name. Faithful among faithless, he has achieved an honorable and enduring fame on the page of his country's history.

THE TERRITORIES.

Ex-Judge J. B. Lewis, of Idaho, who was "resigned" out of office by a forged letter, has returned from his wanderings to Boise, where he is going to engage in the practice of the law.

A court in Idaho has recently held that a man who deals faro, and passes out checks, makes a contract to pay for such checks as may be passed in, but that it is such a contract as the court cannot enforce. This may be said to be wisdom in chunks.

Referring to our confession that the conundrum of Washington Territory politics was too much for us, a gentleman, who knows how it is himself, rises to explain. He says no judge ever went into the Walla Walla district without having a fight for his official hair. The moment he arrives, he is encompassed by a Jones family (so to speak) on one side, and a Smith family (as it were) on the other. If his general conduct, as a gentleman, and his decisions as a judge should happen to please the Smith family, the Joneses immediately begin to get up petitions thirty-five feet long for his removal. If, on the other hand, the Joneses happen to have occasion to think him a good fellow and an upright Judge, the Smiths go for him. The upshot is that between the worryings of the Joneses and the cat haulings of the Smiths, the judge comes to the conclusion that 'twere better to be a dog and bay the moon than be a judge; and so, if not removed soon enough to suit him, he invariably resigns, and falls to plying his successor.

The Executed Thieves.

A GOOD RIDDANCE FOR NEW YORK—SHERIDAN'S SOLDIERS DESTROY THE AARON GANG IN CHICAGO.

[From the New York World, Oct. 12.]

With the terrible news of disaster and calamity flashed across the wires from Chicago yesterday came the cheering intelligence that by the stern rigor of the martial law of General Sheridan this city has been released forever from the depredations of as vile a gang of lawless scoundrels as ever picked a pocket or cut a throat. The dispatches state that James Munday, Barney Aaron, Bill Tracey, Jim Brown, Edward Newman, famous under the alias of Dutch Heinrichs and Joe Butts, the bank robber, were shot and hung by the United States soldiers having been caught red-handed in the midst of their robberies. The receipt of this news brought a feeling of joy to the heart of every respectable man in this city acquainted with the evil character of these ruffians, and a corresponding feeling of regret and fear among the roughs and thieves of Houston street and Broadway with whom they associated.

William Tracey was a young man of rather slim build, with light hair and mustache, about 30 years of age. He was born in the Eleventh Ward, near avenue B, where his mother now resides. From his youth up he consorted with thieves, and drifted into their ways, soon becoming noted as an expert pickpocket. He consorted chiefly with the Eighth and Fourteenth Ward gangs of thieves, especially frequenting the rendezvous for them at Hudson street and Broadway, where he distinguished himself among his fellows by his excess in dress. He was the intimate friend and companion of Jimmy Haggerty, the Philadelphia burglar, and it was owing to his fighting with Thomas Draper, the "Badger King," that Reddy the Blacksmith shot Haggerty dead in Patsy Egan's saloon, at the corner of Houston street and Broadway, on the morning of Wednesday, January 25th. Previous to Haggerty and Tracey entering Egan's saloon that morning they had been on a drunken brawl at Mace's saloon, "The Capitol," in West Twenty-third street, where Tracey severely beat officer McCullagh of the Twenty-ninth Precinct. Since the death of Haggerty, Tracey has very seldom been in in this city, being almost all the time thieving with Barney Aaron and the Western gang of pickpockets through the country. While in town he resided in Twenty-fourth street with his wife, formerly a female shoplifter.

Barney Aaron was a cockney, having been born in London, England. He was a son of old Barney Aaron, the English pugilist. His age up to a week ago was about 37 years. He came to this country over twenty years ago, and boarded in William street with a family named Sickles. He soon became a pickpocket, and varied his occupation with prize-fighting. He fought Billy Edwards and Sam Collyer, and beat them. He was what is known as a feather weight, or the light weight pugilist. But as he grew old Barney found thieving to be the most profitable, and organizing a mob or gang of pickpockets, they worked the Southern cotton fairs in the fall and the Western cities in the winter of the year. When Jerry Dunn shot Jim Logan in Houston street and escaped from the city he made for New Orleans and there joined Barney and the mob. And when detectives Irving and Dusenbury captured Dunn, near St. Louis, they found that Barney and the gang were ubiquitous over the West. This summer while in Cincinnati and Cleveland the writer heard of Barney, and the gang having been there, and so on all over. Aaron was about 5 feet 6½ inches, prominent nose, steel-gray eyes, and light brown hair and mustache. He was a dapper, well-dressed man, and so disguised his age that though 37 years of age, he looked to a casual observed only 25. He was a "pal" or companion of Tracey.

Jimmy Munday, another of the slaughtered innocents, is one of four brothers—all thieves. The eldest—Peter—is in jail in New Orleans waiting trial for shooting a police officer; Charley is in Sing Sing for five years for burglary; and the youngest of the four—Eddie Munday—is in Moyamensing Prison, Pa. Munday was about thirty-five years of age, five feet six inches high, well built, with light auburn hair and mustache. Munday was never noted as a first-class pickpocket, but rather acted as a "stall" or cover for the more artistic thief. He served a couple of terms here for larceny.

Jim Brown is the brother of Walter Brown, the bank sneak-robber, and a thief of the meanest kind. He used to be a bar-tender for Dan Noble, the bond chief, when the latter kept his saloon for thieves in the Eighth Ward. Brown is also a pickpocket, and is twenty-two years of age, five feet nine inches in height, dark complexion, and was a native of Troy.

These are all of the gang who have actually been killed. Dutch Heinrichs was at his house in Third avenue, with his wife, The Davis sister, last night, and Joe Butts, another bank-robber, was around Broadway yesterday afternoon. So that the bankers of the city should not be lulled into a sense of false security by the rumor that these pests have been removed.

The manner of the removal of the precious quartette is just this. Aaron and Tracey went to Chicago and put up a job in the hostelry of Tom Foley, on Fourth avenue, where all the Western mob of thieves stayed while in Chicago. During the progress of the fire they, with Munday and Brown, who had joined them, went out to rob. They struck through the burning streets, and at last reached Clark and Randolph streets at the Sherman House. This was before that magnificent hotel caught fire, but the flames were rapidly sweeping toward it! There was a large jewelry store further down and a bank nearly opposite. The fire had touched these and the doors had been broken open to let the firemen run their hose through the buildings. Tracey and Aaron went for the jewelry store, while Brown and Munday struck for the bank. Both parties were captured. Two lamp-posts were convenient, and some of the citizens' special police elevated Tracey and Aaron thereon, but a sweeter fate befel Munday and Brown. They were captured by some of the Infantry from Omaha, men who speak to a thief with the butts of their muskets, and ask him where he is going with the muzzle. The consequence was natural. Munday and Brown were stood up with their backs against the wall of a house, and the rifles of the soldiers did the rest. So ended the Chicago career of the Aaron gang of thieves.

Annual Report of the Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON, October 15.—The annual report of the Postmaster General is now preparing, and will be ready for submission, to the President at an earlier day than usual. From the general facts and statistics given in Cresswell's speech at the laying of the corner stone of the Boston Postoffice to-day, it will be seen that the results achieved by the Department are quite favorable, as compared with former years. The issue of stamps, stamped envelopes, and newspaper wrappers has increased over last year in numbers 48,000,000 and in value $1,000,150. The total number of adhesive stamps issued was 498,000,000, valued at $1,460,000, against 463,000,000 issued last year, valued at $13,975,000. The total number of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers issued was 104,675,000, valued at $2,093,000, against 86,000,000 issued last year, of the value of $2,480,000. The increase in printed return-request envelopes, returned by the Department free directly to the writers if not called for, is 33 per cent. over last year.

The cheapness and superior quality of the stamped envelope as now furnished by the Government has greatly increased the demand for them throughout the country, especially by banks, insurance companies and leading commercial and manufacturing establishments; while several of the leading governments of Europe have not hesitated to pronounce the new postage stamps of this country to be the best and handsomest ever issued.

It is not likely the question of abolishing the franking privilege will be stirred up to any great extent, in Congress at the next session, but it is very probable that a system of postal telegraphy will be presented and vigorously pressed. The English system has proved to be very successful, though of recent introduction, and is not only very popular with the people, owing to its convenience and cheapness, but it is a source of revenue to the Postal Department. The English and Canadian plan of establishing savings banks in connection with the Postoffice has been found to work well and is so favorably regarded by the public that it is expected Congress will thoroughly investigate the subject with a view to securing similar benefits to own people.

THE HUMAN EAR.—It would appear that all our hearing is done in a very literal sense under water, as shown by the following extract from a London paper:

"Professor Tyndall concluded one of his recent lectures by giving a minute description of the human ear. He explained how the external orifice of the ear is closed at the bottom by a circular tympanic membrane, behind which is a cavity known as the 'drum;' the drum is separated from the brain by two orifices, the one round and the other oval. These orifices are closed by fine membranes. Across the cavity of the drum stretches a series of four little bones, one of which acts as a hammer and another as an anvil. Behind the bony partition, which is pierced by the two orifices already mentioned, is the extraordinary organ called the labyrinth, filled with water; this organ is, between the partition and the brain, and over its lining membrane the terminal fibres of the auditory nerve are distributed. There is an apparatus inside the labyrinth admirably adapted to respond to these vibrations of the water which correspond to the rates of vibrations of certain bristles, of which the said apparatus consists. Finally, there is in the labyrinth a wonderful organ, discovered by the Marchese Corti, which is, to all appearance, a musical instrument, with its chords so stretched as to accept vibrations of different periods, and transmit them to nerve filaments which traverse the organ. Within the ears of men, and without their knowledge or contrivance, this lute of three thousand strings has existed for ages, accepting the music of the outer world and rendering it fit for reception by the brain. Each musical tremor which falls upon this organ selects from its tensioned fibres the one appropriate to its own pitch, and throws that fibre into unisonant vibration. And thus, no matter how complicated the motion of the external air may be, those microscopic strings can analyze it and reveal the constituents of which it is composed; at least such are the present views of those authorities who best understand the apparatus which transmits sonorous vibrations to the auditory nerve."

All the prisoners in a Missouri jail recently walked off except one very conscientious criminal, confined on a charge of murder, who wouldn't go.

A Tennessee editor named Figures has subtracted himself from the staff of his paper, and his late patrons cipher his departure from the town.

The young lady singer who thought she could make her voice clearer by straining it made a great mistake.

Mr. E. L. Bristow, Grand Master I. O. O. F., went last week upon an official visit to the southern counties of the State.

CITY JAIL, PORTLAND, Oregon, June 7, 1871.

A. M. LODYKE & Co: I was attacked with a severe case of rheumatism. It was in my thighs, hips, fingers, shoulder blade—indeed in all the joints of my body. I suffered great pain and anguish. I was attended by a regular physician, but with no effect. I was induced to try your Ude Weed Remedy, and it immediately cured me up. I consider it, from my experience, the best remedy for rheumatism known.

CITY.

DOWN FIRST STREET.—When Dr. C year put up his brick building on the First and Ash streets, most of people had piled up a good many dollars wor to remain many a day before the in them would pay interest on the investm changes wrought, however, since th have taken place in the city, except mediately around the north ferry land there was but one or two small busin on First street north of Oro Fin and most of the houses we old, dilapidated and of little va street was almost as quiet as is now Twelfth. Now, there is scarcely one houses left, their places being occupie sized and commodious business houses wood or brick. On the west side of F the ground is almost all occupied with taurants, shops and markets. Very Ankeny's new brick, corner of First across the way from Dr. Glisan's, wi pleted and occupied. EMIGRANTS.—It is an almost every rence that one or more families pass the city for eastern Oregon. Several people, and large numbers of cattle, sheep have gone up the Columbia durin summer, to settle on the pastoral la part of the State. We have inform several hundreds have also crossed the by the way of the Barlow road, the road, and by way of the Columbia person who recently crossed the mountai Barlow road, counted no less than wagons going eastward. Probably one year since 1865 has eastern Oreg so large an accession of population as late summer.

How's THIS?—A few days since, Northwest, speaking of Joaquin Miller, "when the accounts of his feastings a in London" reached Mrs. Miller, wife, "the children were in actual need To this the State Journal replies: from as good authority as Mrs. Duniwa information from, that Mr. Miller ha means for the support of his children sent money to Mrs. Miller, which was returned to him." If this be true, we ly comprehend the justice there is in way in which the New Northwest puts It is not a spice of ill-will in its sta Miller?

TUESDAY MORNING, OCT. 31, 1871.

CITY.

DOWN FIRST STREET.—When Dr. Glisan last year put up his brick building on the corner of First and Ash streets, most of people thought he had piled up a good many dollars' worth of bricks to remain many a day before the income from them would pay interest on the investment. The changes wrought, however, since then, in that neighborhood, are about as wonderful as any that have taken place in the city, except at and immediately around the north ferry landing. Then there was but one or two small business places on First street north of Oro Fino Theater, and most of the houses were small, old, dilapidated and of little value. The street was almost as quiet as is now Tenth or Twelfth. Now, there is scarcely one of the old houses left, their places being occupied by good sized and commodious business houses, of either wood or brick. On the west side of First street the ground is almost all occupied with stores, restaurants, shops and markets. Very soon Capt. Ankeny's new brick, corner of First and Ash, across the way from Dr. Glisan's, will be completed and occupied. Knapp, Burrell & Co. have a front on the opposite side of First, and before long Savier & Co.'s new brick, with a front on First, will be occupied. A little further along the great market house and theater is going up. Next summer when this shall come to be occupied, that part of First street from Stark down to A, will be one of the most stirring localities in the city. We learned yesterday that Mr. J. S. Smith and others had purchased land on the south side of Ash, and extending through from First to Front, intending to erect on it next spring just such another building as that now occupied by Knapp, Burrell & Co. On North First street, several business houses have been erected this season, and others are in contemplation to be erected early next season. Altogether the changes of the last year and those of which we already know for the next year, will constitute one of the most surprising chapters in the history of Portland's growth.

UNJUST.—It seems to be a sort of fashion to speak of the late State Fair as a failure. Viewed, however, in regard to its most important features it was not a failure at all. We wish to correct an unjust estimate put upon it by the Albany Register and shared in by several other papers which did not have any special reporters at the Fair. The Register says: "The late State Fair at Salem is pronounced by journals throughout the State, who have expressed an opinion in regard to it, as a failure. As a representative of the agricultural, mechanical and mineral to say nothing of the fine art resources of the State, we must either arrive at the conclusion that Oregon has nothing scarcely to show, or that the exhibition was a miserable farce. The exhibition of animals, too, except it may be race horses, was very meagre." We do not think it quite correct to say that the "journals throughout the State" which had special reports, have pronounced the Fair a failure, and certainly those papers which had no representatives at the Fair, have no right to express such an opinion. It is true that most of the reporters of the press united in criticism of the management, and all admitted that in the matter of the "pretty things" usually displayed in the pavilion, there was little to boast of. But no fair report spoke of it as a failure in respect to stock, agricultural and mechanical exhibitions. It is emphatically unjust to say that "the exhibition of animals, too, except it may be race horses, was very meagre." On the contrary, while the show of horses was about as usual, the exhibition of fine cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, and agricultural implements, etc., was never better. We are sure that, in criticising certain things in the management, the prostitution of the "trials of speed" to the purposes mainly of gambling operators, and the demoralizing influences of the clap-trap and catch-penny shows, none of the leading journals intended to be understood as pronouncing the Fair a failure. While it may be necessary to be severe in criticism, it does not follow that we need be unjust.

THE WEST SIDE RAILROAD.—A Lafayette correspondent sends us the following under date Oct. 29: "The storehouse built on the line of the O. & C. Railroad at Cornelius is crammed full of wheat—say 30,000 bushels. An addition is being built to it, to supply the demand for storage, waiting the arrival of the cars. The railroad surveying party is locating the line on the east side of Wapato Lake and will cross the Yamhill river between this place and Dayton. The survey runs through what is known as the South gap of the Chehalem mountains. The farmers are all busy putting in their fall crops. Along and in the neighborhood of the line now surveyed, the farmers are immensely pleased to think the road is coming their way instead of on the route located a year ago, and I think there will be no trouble about the right of way."

EMIGRANTS.—It is an almost every day occurrence that one or more families pass through this city for eastern Oregon. Several hundreds of people, and large numbers of cattle, horses and sheep have gone up the Columbia during the past summer, to settle on the pastoral lands of that part of the State. We have information that several hundreds have also crossed the mountains by the way of the Barlow road, the Lebanon road, and by way of the Columbia trail. One man who recently crossed the mountains by the Barlow road, counted no less than sixty-five wagons going eastward. Probably not in any one year since 1865 has eastern Oregon received so large an accession of population as during the late summer.

HOW'S THIS?—A few days since, the New Northwest, speaking of Joaquin Miller, stated that "when the accounts of his feastings and fetings in London" reached Mrs. Miller, his former wife, "his children were in actual need of bread." To this the State Journal replies: "We have it from as good authority as Mrs. Duniway gets her information from, that Mr. Miller has provided means for the support of his children, and has sent money to Mrs. Miller, which was indignantly returned to him." If this be true, we can scarcely comprehend the justice there is in the strong way in which the New Northwest puts the matter. Is there not a spice of ill-will in its stabs at Mr. Miller?

A PIPE SEWER.—In pursuance of permission granted by the City Council, Messrs Ankeny and Watson have commenced the work of putting down a pipe sewer along Ash street, to connect the Market block with the sewer under Front street. They propose to lay a pipe of burned clay, or what is commonly called stone pipe. It is made in sections of about thirty inches in length, and is about six or seven inches in interior diameter.

LADIES' RELIEF MEETING.—There will be a meeting of the ladies at the Baptist Church at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to organize a Relief Society in aid of the Michigan and Wisconsin sufferers, the leading purpose being to purchase and forward supplies of clothing for the women and children. A full attendance is specially desired. The noble purpose appeals to every charitable heart.

TRANSFER OF DRAY AND HACK PROPERTY.—The rumors some time since afloat to the effect that the P. D. & H. Co. had sold out to Ben Holladay, seem to have been based on a better foundation than most of the rumors that go buzzing around. We learn upon unquestionable authority that the sale has been made, and that the transfer will take place to-morrow, Nov. 1st.

DISCONTINUED.—We are informed that the Oregon & California Stage Co. has discontinued its office in this city, and that hereafter through tickets can only be purchased at the Co.'s office at Eugene, or of the local agents of the O. & C. Railroad Co. along the road. A. H. Burrows is the Stage Co.'s agent at Eugene.

Sinking Fast.

Pale, miserable, discouraged, without relish for food, without energy enough for exertion, yet with no acute pain, or other specific indication of disease, how often do we see feeble invalids fading as it were out of life without any apparent cause. We say of them that they are "sinking fast," or "sinking gradually," as the case may be. But there is no good reason why they should sink at all. Persons in this dead-alive state simply want invigorating and vitalizing. Nature, in a state of torpor, demands help. Bring out the reserve of vitality in the system, brace the nerves, tone the stomach, break up the morbid trance of body and mind with a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It can be done. It has been done in thousands of instances. The effect upon the enervated frame is electric. Never give up, however languid and broken down. Remember that, for the exhausted, the debilitated, the desponding, this powerful vegetable restorative is a genuine elixir. It is not a mere stimulant that provokes a transient flush of vigor in the system, and then leaves it in a more depressed condition than before. It removes the causes of debility by altering the secretions, and regulating the action of the internal organs, as well as re-enforcing them. It is a particularly valuable medicine at this season, because it is an antidote to the malaria which produces intermittent fever, bilious colic and other disorders of the bowels prevalent in the fall.

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY!

PURELY MUTUAL!

ASSETS..........$17,000,000!

ISSUED 9,025 POLICIES IN 1870.

Insuring Over $27,000,000!

WM. H. BEERS,
Vice President and Actuary.

MORRIS FRANKLIN,
President.

AMONG THE ADVANTAGES OFFERED BY THE NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY are:—

1st. PURE MUTUALITY, so that the entire surplus earnings over the actual cost of insurance is returned to the policy holders who are the only members.

2d. AGE, having been organized in 1845. It has the benefit of the experience of a quarter of a century, and members are thus guaranteed from all doubtful experiment in the method of conducting its business.

3d. STABILITY AND PERPETUITY shown by the accumulation of a capital of Seventeen Millions of Dollars, after paying all losses promptly, and returning large dividends to its members. It has now an income of over Seven Millions of Dollars, and the interest on its investments, with premium on gold, &c., has been sufficient during the past two years to pay accruing losses.

4th. NON-FORFEITURE OF POLICIES. It originated the system of non-forfeiture of policies, and to it the public are indebted for a feature so favorable to the insured.

5th. SUICIDE does not cause a forfeiture of the policy, that being considered an evidence of insanity, and insanity the result of disease.

6th. DIVIDENDS. Its dividends are declared annually, and are available immediately as cash in payment of premiums. Many companies declare their premiums annually, but do not pay them till several years thereafter; others defer their declarations for two, three or four years from the time the policy commences. In this Company a party always has a dividend which can be used in the payment of the second and all subsequent annual premiums.

7th. ITS DIVIDEND SYSTEM is the "Contribution Plan," by which each member is charged with the exact cost of his insurance, and receives back his surplus payments. These dividends can remain with the Company, participating in its earnings, and be used at any subsequent period in the payment of premiums.

8th. LIBERALITY IN SETTLEMENT OF LOSSES. Experience has shown that cases arise where policies, although EQUITABLY claims, are not LEGALLY so. The records of this Company bear many acknowledgments from widows and relatives of deceased members of its liberality and fairness in settlement of all such losses. There being no stockholders in the Company to share its profits, interests adverse to policy-holders cannot possibly arise, the Trustees simply occupying the position of arbitrators between the members, with no inducement to take from one and give to another.

ÆTNA

OF HARTFORD, CONN.

FOUNDED IN THE YEAR 1820.

Adopted Mutual System in the year 1861.

ACCUMULATED CAPITAL OVER..........$16,000,000.
ITS ANNUAL INCOME OVER..........6,000,000.
WHOLE NUMBER OF POLICIES ISSUED TO DATE, NEARLY..........100,000.
NUMBER OF POLICIES ISSUED IN 1870..........11,317.

THE ÆTNA RANKS AS ONE OF THE FIRST COMPANIES IN THE LAND!

IN INCOME, IN ASSETS, IN NUMBER OF POLICIES, IN AMOUNT INSURED, IN SOLIDITY AND STRENGTH, IN SOUNDNESS, CHEAPNESS, PROMPTNESS AND SUCCESS.

THE AMOUNT OF DIVIDEND A COMPANY CAN PAY ITS INSURED, DEPENDS UPON THE RATES charged for insurance, the AMOUNT of business done, the EXPENSE of doing it, the INTEREST on its investments, the CARE exercised in the selection of its risks, and the TIME when such dividends are paid. In regard to these, as also all other points, the ÆTNA is unsurpassed in advantages by any other Insurance Company in the United States.

The New York Insurance Monitor says of the Ætna:—"No Life Insurance Company ever achieved as complete a success as this popular institution. Its popularity is altogether unprecedented in the annals of commercial enterprise in this country."

The New York Independent says of the Ætna Life:—"It is to-day one of the soundest and most reliable Insurance Companies in the United States—every dollar of its assets well secured, more than providing for all liabilities; and it eminently deserves a still greater patronage and the unhesitating confidence of the public."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY EVENING, Oct. 30, 1871.

Gold in New York, 111½.

Portland bankers paying for currency 88¾, selling 89½.

The steamer Oriflamme from San Francisco with passengers and cargo assorted merchandise is due on Wednesday.

The steamer John L. Stephens left this evening for San Francisco with passengers and produce. It is reported she is to be withdrawn from this route and another steamer placed on.

Messrs. Hewitt, Flowerdew & Co. have chartered in San Francisco the Fleetwing to load her with Wheat for Cork. They expect it up by the last of this week. They were compelled to do this owing to their having purchased more Wheat than they had vessels to load. The cargo of the Fleetwing is secured.

The bark Helen W. Almy, loading for Messrs. Corbitt & Macleay, will clear from this port, to-morrow for San Francisco.

The bark Live Yankee, loading Wheat for San Francisco, by Messrs. Hewitt, Flowerdew & Co., will complete cargo by Wednesday.

At the commencement of harvesting from all the information to be obtained and from estimates of former crops we placed the surplus yield of Wheat at 1,250,000 centals; but from the receipts and amounts yet to be forwarded and amounts held by farmers and not sold we are satisfied our estimate is too small. The amount that has been and is yet to be exported in Wheat and Flour will not fall short of 1,600,000 centals, and may largely exceed that amount. We expect to be able ere long to lay before our readers a tabular statement verifying the above.

We clip the following from the San Francisco Bulletin's Commercial Department:

The officers of the Union Insurance Company feel quite cheerful with respect to their condition. Their Chicago [illegible] cannot possibly exceed $500,000, and may not go beyond $400,000. The latter amount can be paid without disturbing capital. The assessment in process of collection will make them stronger than ever. They have the promise of all the money necessary to pay their losses in Chicago, without waiting for the assessment.

From a journal of September 29th, published in England for the almost exclusive use of the English Breadstuff importers, as it is considered in every respect perfectly reliable, and for that reason importers in England and shippers abroad are governed to a greater extent by it than from any other source, in their Grain and Breadstuff shipments, we give the following extracts:

The British Corn trade has assumed a firmer tone, and prices of most articles have either been held firmer or turned upwards. The immediate cause of the altered position has been the prevailing unsettled weather, interfering with the still outstanding northern crops, as well with the threshing of home grown Wheat, diminishing its supply and affecting the growth of the Grain. The firm feeling has also been strengthened by the increasing conviction of the existing variety in yield, weight and quality of all [illegible] more prominently [illegible] sorts and light weight [illegible] increasing the probability [illegible] the British Wheat crop [illegible] threshing. The real extent and value of [illegible] correctly estimated [illegible]

That a deficiency exists is [illegible] fact. The question now is about the real importance [illegible] England has for years past been a regular importer of foreign Grain on an increasing scale. The only difference of this year compared to others is that a larger [illegible] than in ordinary years is wanted. If we require 10,000,000 or 11,000,000 qrs in Wheat and Flour for the next harvest year, ending September, 1872, there appears to be no insuperable difficulty in securing all that is wanted without resorting to famine prices. The imports of Wheat and Flour during the three months ending this week are returned at 3,100,000 qrs., or at the rate of 12,400,000 qrs a year. These imports have been made at prices corresponding the Gazette quotations of English Wheat, ranging from 56s 6d to 57s 1d [illegible] qrs. (Quarters this year average about 400 lbs each.) This fact [illegible] to be taken as an assurance that the needful will be forthcoming without resorting to extraordinary [illegible] if consumption is left undisturbed [illegible] to provide for it [illegible] But if undue speculation should interfere and create excitement, prices may be artificially lifted high above present currency, and although such a course may give satisfaction and swell for a time the profits of those who just happened to be holders, it is quite possible that a great rise in prices may stimulate next year's shipments abroad to such an extent as to reverse the course of prices from an upward course to a downward one, and convert the expected profits into ruinous losses. Such has been the painful experience of the harvest year of 1869-70.

From [illegible] advices we learn that the number of Wheat laden vessels on passage at that date, 29th of September, was not excessive, but little more than last year at the corresponding period. The export demand from England which had been very active for France and the Rhenish Provinces, had almost completely subsided, with the exception of a few lots Golden Drops for seed Wheat for shipment to France. Considerable of the importations from the southeast of Europe has arrived in unsound condition, and to such an extent that purchasers only bought on condition of soundness on delivery. The consequence of these shipments arriving in such condition is that the market for inferior quality is glutted; for choice there is an active demand with prices tending up at that date, Sept. [illegible]

Merchandise Report.

WHEAT—Market is more than usually devoid of animation. One of our largest shipping houses has reduced offerings to $2 [illegible] 30 ℔ ctl, sacked. The receipts on Saturday were in excess of any previous day this season not being less than 10,000 centals.

FLOUR—Considerable goes forward to the California market per John L. Stephens. We quote market firm for extra, $7 50 ℔ bbl and $6 50@7 ℔ bbl for superfine.

POTATOES—Market has not recovered from the over supply of last week and in absence of any regular rates we quote market weak at $1 50@1 65 per 100lbs for Oregon.

OATS—Market firm at former quotations. The trade taking all coming forward at $2 [illegible] 55 ℔ cental, sacked, [illegible] Dack Chung & Co. ship on the outgoing [illegible] to-day 1050 mats for the San Francisco market. No change in prices as market still firm at 9½c for strictly No. 1 and 9@9½c for No. 2.

COFFEE—The American Grocer states: "Our latest advices from Rio Janeiro, dated Sept. 11, confirm the previous reports of a greatly diminished crop. Many holders predict a Coffee famine, and expect increased prices. The increase in the consumption of Coffee and the decrease in the product on of Rio from 480,000,000 pounds last year to [illegible],000,000 pounds this year, and of Java from 170,000,000 to 106,000,000, and of the Ceylon crop the same proportion as the Java crop, makes it certain that the supply for the coming year will be less than the consumption of the past year, and that high prices must be the rule. The total supply of all kinds of Coffee on the 1st of Jan., 1871, at [illegible] ports was 19,769,120 pounds. The receipts of all kinds to October 1, have been 225,758,240 pounds, making a total supply of 244,527,360 pounds. The stocks October 1, amounted to 12,192,320 pounds, [illegible] of Coffee in the United States for nine months (except 11,544,799 pounds at San Francisco) to have been 252,325,040 pounds, a monthly average of 26,815,036 pounds."

Williamson, 509 Kearny street, San Francisco, until 12 o'clock of Wednesday November 29, 1871, from iron manufacturers only, for furnishing the materials and labor of all kinds necessary for the completion of the METAL WORK of a first order Light-House for Cape Foulweather, Oregon, in accordance with the specifications and drawings.

The same to be delivered at the expense of the contractor, on board of a sea going vessel or vessels, at San Francisco or Portland.

The Light-House Establishment will provide all the wrought iron floor beams, the lantern, the lens, the lamps and furniture belonging thereto, and their cost is not to be included in the amount of the bid.
